

London Works for Better Health - Bosses' Business Breakfasts

Facilitated by STAND to REASON

“Reduce Absence, Reduce Costs”
in partnership with Neylon
Occupational Health Ltd

Keynote speaker: Sandra Neylon, Occupational Health Nurse Consultant

Since 2002 Tate & Lyle has reduced long-term sickness absence by 60% and ill-health early retirement by 75%. By making some simple adjustments to working arrangements it has enabled employees to return to work more quickly and safely, improving their mental and physical health and saving the business money.

Wednesday 10th December 2008, 8.00am – 10.00am
Thames Refinery, Factory Road, Silvertown, London, E16 2EW

This FREE breakfast is one of a series for senior managers and is by invitation only. Host organisations will describe how good jobs have benefited their businesses; find out how you can translate this into practical action within your own business, whatever its size. Help us to understand the challenges and opportunities you face and be part of shaping the next stage of the London Works employer campaign.

Programme for all events:

8.00am	Breakfast and networking
8.30am	Welcome from Jonathan Naess on behalf of London Works
8.40am	Presentation from host
9.00am	Q &A and discussion
9.45am	Networking
10.00am	Close

At 10.00am there will be an optional tour of the Tate & Lyle refinery, which will last around an hour.

If you are interested in attending this or another business breakfast please complete the attached booking form and return to Charlotte Hall at the London Health Commission (full details on form). Map overleaf.

Directions to Tate & Lyle Thames Refinery, Factory Road, Silvertown, London, E16 2EW

The best way to get here is by DLR to City Airport. From the platform you can see the factory. As you come down into the ticket hall from the platform take the exit on the left signed 'Drew Road'. As you leave the subway walk towards the Refinery, but turn right at Albert Road, and then go over the footbridge and head for the Main Reception.

If you do drive, then just follow the signs to City Airport and take North Woolwich Road from the roundabout on the left below, following this road into Factory Road. You can park in the visitors' car park outside Reception.
